FLOOR DEBATE

April 13, 2004 LB 1017

SENATOR BEUTLER: Okay.

SENATOR LANDIS: It's meant to be a kind of performance-based budgeting on an ongoing basis, funded initially by the monies from the tax amnesty.

SENATOR BEUTLER: Okay. And if one of those persons is fired or quits or goes someplace else, then I'm assuming that a new person could be hired, even though that wasn't a person hired pursuant to the original flush of money, that that person would continue to be counted as one of the auditors,...

SENATOR LANDIS: The position, not the...

SENATOR BEUTLER: ...and would be the basis of the calculation.

SENATOR LANDIS: Yeah. Not the person, but the position,...

SENATOR BEUTLER: The position.

SENATOR LANDIS: ...is a tax amnesty position. Although, we're two years away from that, and my guess is we can solve that, you know, in the intervening time. But I would mean that it would be the position, not the identity of the person.

SENATOR BEUTLER: Okay. Thank you very much.

SENATOR LANDIS: You bet.

SENATOR BEUTLER: The other final thing that I would just note, disappointingly, in a small way, we are once again, with this bill, in terms of the reform of the sales tax on services, digging the hole a little bit deeper, in the sense that with the allowance that is now attached to the basic 60-40 provision in this bill, we will be losing, I'm not sure what the correct estimate is, $1 million a year, thereabouts, indefinitely. So I do nothing more but note that and express my disappointment that we continue to allow revenues to drain away by one mechanism or another this session. Thank you.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Thank you, Senator Beutler. Further
